

Stargazing in Mojave National Preserve

If you've never enjoyed a dark sky, May is a perfect time to see it. See knots of stars, and seemingly dark voids. Telescopes reveal star clusters, gas clouds, remnants of exploded stars. Astronomers from the Old Town Sidewalk Astronomers will point out constellations during a star tour.

- Free camping at the group campground!
- Free night sky program with highly skilled astronomers!
- High-powered telescopes on site for public use!
- Snacks and beverages provided!
- Learn about the Preserve and the Conservancy!

When: Saturday, May 19, 2012 beginning at 7:00pm

Where: Black Canyon Group Campground

What to Bring: Camping gear, layered clothing, food to share.

Dinner is potluck—bring your favorite dish to share with the group. Breakfast is on your own.

RSVP with David Lamfrom at dlamfrom@npca.org or 760-219-4916

Old Town
Sidewalk
Astronomers

